WAR DIARY

Minute One.

Reference inquiry Officer i/c War Diaries, C.M.H.Q.

- 2. The War Diary of this Unit, which was typed up to the end of May, was locked with the Unit's filing system, which was placed on the transport, the diary not having been turned in as no time had been available to sort the appendices prior to our departure. Consequently, the typed copies of the diary, and all appendices are lost. It is reported that there were no appendices of great value as they were in the main, copies of orders which can be obtained also where.
 - J. The diarist's hamivritten notes, however, were on his person and have not been lost, and the diary can be reproduced. Since the arrival in England, it has not been possible to obtain the proper form, and the siary is presently being typed on ordinary paper, and will be forwarded at an early date.
